ACHILLES SHIELD

NINETEEN HUNDRED AND FORTY-SEVEN

PUBLISHED BY SENIORS OF

ACHILLES HIGH SCHOOL

ACHILLES, VIRGINIA

F O R E W O R D

As we, the Senior Class, leave the old school which we love, we say farewell to all our friends. We are leaving here because she affords us no greater opportunity to go farther in wisdom's ways. It is with pleasure that we look on the days we spent within her walls; the good times we had; the tricks we played; the jokes we pulled, and the lessons, both hard and easy. But we look into the future with drawn eye brows. When we think of what is before us, it makes us shudder. There are hills and mountains to climb, steep cliffs to scale, and deep ravines to cross. Life is a rugged path.

As you open this book and read from page to page, it is a brief review of the days spent at Achilles. We have made an honest and sincere effort to bring to you the ninth volume of the "Achilles Shield."

CLASS HISTORY

You may not find in the pages of American History the events I am about to relate. Nevertheless, I defy anyone to prove that they are not as worthy of mention as any of the deeds performed by the heroes whose names are painted in flaming letters in those same national eulogies. Would you have me prove my words? Then stretch your ears and give heed.

In the year 1943, a handsome and smiling group of girls and boys descended upon this ancient institution. Without the calm and dignity that have always characterized our actions, we elected our officers, selected our class colors, our motto and learned a few yells, fitting to display our loyal and eager spirit. Our colors were green and white. For a motto, we selected the words, "In God We Trust." The officers selected were Mary Hilda Heywood, president; Elva Joyce Edwards, vice-president; Jennie Belvin, secretary-treasurer; and Miss Delle Fraley, Sponsor. That year came to a close with no unusual events taking place.

September 1944, found thirty-one Sophomores hurrying back to the institution. That year we found ourselves with a new student from North Carolina. Officers for the year were Elva Joyce Edwards, president; Annie Jenkins, vice-president; Jennie Belvin, secretary; Mary Hall, treasurer, Bessie Conner and Edna Brown, reporters; and Juanita Bunting, historian with Mrs. William Streagle, sponsor. For our motto we selected, "A winner never quits; a quitter never wins." Blue and silver were selected as colors with American Beauty Rose as our flower. Only one exciting thing happened for the Sophomores that year which was a Hallowe'en Party at the home of Bessie Conner. Another uneventful year came to a close the following June.

Only twenty-seven of us were fortunate enough to find ourselves entering the Junior Class under the leadership of Eloise Bryant, president; Mary Hall, vice-president; Jean Hall, secretary; Jennie Belvin, treasurer and Mrs. M. T. Harris, sponsor. Our colors were gold and black with Talisman Rose as a flower. "Esse Quam Videre" was the class motto. Helen Russell joined the class while Liston Shackelford left us. In February unfortunately our president left to attend Mathew-Whaley. That year proved to be quite eventful for us. First, there was the thrill of ordering class rings. Then a very successful Christmas Musical was sponsored by the class just before the Christmas holidays. Next we began planning the most important event of all, the Junior-Senior party which was an all-day trip to Richmond on April 19th.

After three months of leisure twenty-one dignified Seniors were eager and ready to achieve the goal — graduation. Again Elva Joyce Edwards had the honor of being our leader with Jennie Belvin, vice-president; Juanita Bunting, secretary; Mary Hilda Heywood, treasurer; Thomas Riley, historian, and Mrs. M. T. Harris, sponsor. Green and white seemed to be the favorites with the class because again we selected these colors. The motto, a very suitable one indeed, was, "Tonight we launch, where shall we anchor?" Before many weeks had passed John King left the class for some unknown reason. One of the most important features of the year was a Hallowe'en Party sponsored by the Seniors. Later there was the joy of presenting the Senior Play. The Junior-Senior party was quite an event also. At last the twenty Seniors reached the destination, one that will long be remembered by us all.

THOMAS RILEY, Historian '47.

CLASS PROPHECY

As I sat by my fireplace, gazing into the red hot flames, my thoughts went back to the happy days spent at Achilles High School and the wonderful memories of those times we had spent there together. The night we launched into a new world still has a world of meaning. Our motto, "Tonight we launch, where shall we anchor?" was still on my mind as I wondered where my classmates had anchored. All of that was nine years ago, but it shall never be erased from my page of memories.

The fire was growing dim and my eyes were misty. In a few minutes I was off to dreamland with my classmates still in mind. In my most unusual dream, I saw Elva Joyce Edwards, now the head nurse at De Paul Hospital in Norfolk. One of her patients was Jean Hall, who was recovering from a tonsillectomy. Jean had recently written the book, "Things Are Different Now," which was a great publication. Also stationed in Norfolk was Thomas Riley, a naval officer. Thomas had really gone far and set his anchor deep.

The scene in my dream was changed, and drifted to Baltimore, where I saw Betty Ann Williams, who was teaching at City College. Betty Ann had as her guest, Helen Russell, now an air line hostess in Washington, D. C. In Washington, Juanita Bunting was working for some large business firm as secretary to the manager.

Wallace Williams, Jr., an electrical engineer, was busy opening a new business office in Newport News. He had already engaged Annie Jenkins as his new secretary. In Newport News I saw Mary Hilda Heywood and Frances Belvin, as nurses at Riverside Hospital. Mary Slater Rowe was in training at Buxton Hospital.

Again my dream changed and I found myself attending the wedding of Mary Hall. It seems as though Mary and one of our school bus drivers had decided to settle down. I took my place in the church and looked around at the lovely decorations. My eyes seemed to drift over the faces of the crowd and whom should they rest upon, but Jennie Belvin and Lucille Green. Jennie was now the assistant business manager of the Daily Special, so I acquired later. Lucille had been holding a responsible office position in Chicago, so she told me during our interesting conversation following the wedding ceremony. She had come to Langley Field by plane on which George Anderson was the pilot. George was then working for the International Air Transportation and going far in life.

My dream drifted to New York, where I was attending the famous Metropolitan. The curtains were drawn and there before the huge audience stood Bessie Conner, now a well known and famous singer. The applause was great and I joined in with all my heart, for her singing was truly lovely.

I awoke from my slumber with a start, for I had been asleep longer than I had anticipated. I was late for my appointment, but before leaving, I glanced through my mail. The handwriting on two of the letters was very familiar. I was excited to know who these two letters were from, so I ripped open the envelopes and discovered that they were from two of my class mates of long ago, Katherine Ash, now a physical educator at some school in West Virginia and Margie Jenkins, the assistant manager of one of the large fashion shops in Richmond. Both letters were very interesting. Katherine told me of the success of Mary Alice Hogge, a well known beautician in Portsmouth.

I hurried to keep my appointment, completely overjoyed at the wonderful success of each of my classmates and the happiness that wonderful memories and dreams bring.

MARY ALICE HOGGE 47

"The Guiding Light"

We stand on the bridge at midnight
This lovely night in June,
And watch with awe a brilliant light
Gleaming brighter than the moon.

From far in the hazy distance
That light, our help, our guide,
Shines forth with dazzling brightness
Upon the waters disturbed by tide.

And like the noisy waters rushing
Among the unyielding wooden piers,
A flood of thoughts come o'er us
That fill our hearts with grateful tears.

We linger then a moment silent
And with humble gratitude we bless,
The teachings, The guidance we received
During the day we spent at A. H. S.

And as the waters bear us onward
O'er the oceans, wild and wide,
May all our future's be successful
With God, the light, our guide.
